News of the Day.

The wires were all down last night, and we are without later dates than the 1st.

The Herald starts a sensation report that the rebel deserters won in our favor lately, are sent into our lines in purpose of a new design. It is probably so, so that Jeff Davis will never be able to afford.

Another raid is being organized on British soil. This time it is supposed the attempt will be made on Oswego. Nothing will result.

The subject of arming slaves is up again in the rebel Congress. They do not propose to guarantee freedom to them. If they were to do so, the rebels would be forced to know the exact value of their project from the pages of history. "In the fourth century the Saracens, being attacked by the Goths, found themselves obliged to set at liberty and to arm their slaves to repel their assailants. By this means they were enabled to overcome the Gothic, but the victorious slaves turned their arms against their masters drove the latter out of the country. This misfortune obliged them to the number of three hundred thousand to apply for relief to the Roman Emperor who incorporated them in his legions. The result of this was capable of saving, and gave settlement to the remainder in Africa and other parts of the Empire. This was the last remarkable action of Constantine the Great."

Nashville is nearly flooded by the rise in the Cumberland.

The postal money-order system is working finely. The office at Washington sold during the month of February orders to the amount of $10,000,000, receiving therefor $2,500 in fees. The total paid at the office only amounted to $4,768.22. The number of letters registered during the same time is 884, notwithstanding that the additional security is almost unappreciated.

There are nearly thirty thousand women and children now registered to free the families of all colored soldiers.

We have a confirmation of the rumor that our agent at Matamoras has been exposed by order of the imperial government. He was in constant difficulty with citizens and soldiery, and is severely blamed by some for his conduct. He will doubtless lose his loyalty to democracy and consequent sympathy with the liberality is the real cause of his trouble. It is not probable that he will be replaced at once; since we cannot, now or ever, hold diplomatic intercourse with Maximilian's court. At the same time, he will remain to give information to the imperialists from every other point of prominence in the north, except Mazatlan, are marching on Matamoras. If they take the traitor Mojsi on his head will not be worth an hour's purchase.

Action of the Louisville Presbytery.

We understand that on Friday last a called meeting of this Presbytery was held in the session room of the First Presbyterian church. The Presbytery dissolved the pastoral relation between Dr. P. R. Wilson and the Marbury church in Shelby county, and directed its installation over the first church of this city. They also received the Rev. John C. Young as a Deacon from the Presbytery of Pennsylvania, and directed his installation as co-pastor of the Second Presbyterian church in this city.

We understand that this latter arrangement does not interfere in the least with the Canadian Pastorate of the Rev. Stuart Robinson, D. D. He is still pastor of the Second church, though residing in his native parish at Toronto in Canada. We have no doubt that a large portion of his flock are rather pleased with the idea of being thus pastured and fed by Young, especially so after reading his last sermon addressed to the President of the United States.

That sermon was a remarkable specimen of pious political homilies with the slightest possible tinge of secessionism. In manner and matter it suited a majority of the flock exactly.

We believe the brethren felt sincerely grateful to the Presbytery for giving that sermon the wide circulation it obtained through our columns. If their Canadian pastor has anything more of the same kind in reserve we hope he will not feel backward in giving vent to his feelings, for "Old Abe" can stand a good deal of that sort of preaching. He is used to every variety of rebel talk, plauso, super-plauso, and polysyllabics.

So we hope Dr. Robinson will hurry up his next sermon for his flock and "Old Abe" have had a large taste and are longing for more.

We are informed that the meeting of the Presbytery above alluded to was far from being harmonious. There were a few ministers and members present who saw through the face of the co-pastorate-business. The discussions were warm and earnest, but orderly and dignified.

Rev. L. L. McKee made an able and impulsive speech in opposition to the action of the Presbytery, and was promptly seconded by Dr. Mathews, of Shelbyville, but the plauso, political affinities of the majority were not to be overcome. There was evidently a Canadian pre-arrangement.

We suppose this question will not stop where it is, but that it will be taken up by the Synod which meets in the Chestnut Street Church next fall.

Adopting the familiar language of the "world's people," we should say that the division in the Presbytery was clearly cut, between rebel christian sympathizers and loyal christian men, and that the first named being largely in the majority carried things their own way.

The largest party ever given in Washington came off on Wednesday night at the private residence of Charles Knapp, contractor for heavy canon. Two houses have been connected into one by tearing down walls. The cost of this fandango was not less $100,000. The money would have been better used had it been spent for the comfort of the 12,000 patriots in our hospitals.

The Slave Pens.
We give below the order of Major General Palmer abolishing the scandal and abomination which our city fathers are not too civilized to endure with amiable and silent patience, if not with a more positive and approving sentiment.

Gen. Palmer's orders thus far are signally wise and just, and must command him to all patriotic and true men. Without bluster or parade, or apology to the disloyal sentiment of Kentucky, he moves straight to the goal along the path of manifest duty, wasting no force in spurring or in random strokes.

The slave-peas of Louisville had become recent centers of cupidity and corruption, in addition to the essential barbarism that always characterized them. Bouyon brokers and various grades of Jeremy Diddlers were making use of them, as traps for unwary colored men who were imprisoned in them without law or justice, and released on condition of enlisting, the brokers pocketing the city bounty. Which fact is a little hard on city authorities amongst others. Besides this, certain owners of slaves were driving a decidedly thrifty trade, considering how "burdensome" slavery has become, through the use of these pens, and assistance of these brokers. They were shutting up their negroes, forcing them by torture of imprisonment (and in some cases as we have heard by additional torture) to enlist, pocketing the city bounty, and then making out in due form their claim for compensation from the United States, based of course upon irreproachable and unconditional loyalty, and on the noble self-sacrifice with which they have surrendered to the Government, property that had become a burden instead of a representative of value. These are the men that are ready to break out on the slightest provocation—or, if provocation is lacking, spontaneously into prodigious cursing of Yankee cupidity. They are also much insulted if anybody hints that the National Government is under no legal or moral obligation to pay the full value of slaves liberated by the constitution and exercised for the protection of the government and the defense of the public interest. It is this that will be justified, I am sure, when we receive the news that the latter but the victorious slaves turning their arms against their masters drove the latter out of the country. This misfortune obliged them to the number of three hundred thousand to apply for relief to the Roman Emperor who incorporated them in his legions. The result of this was capable of saving, and gave settlement to the remainder in Africa and other parts of the Empire. This was the last remarkable action of Constantine the Great."

The wrangle in Richmond over the question of arming slaves is reaching a crisis. The Enquirer calls on Jeff Davis to walk rough-shod over the veto of the rebel Senate upon the measure, and take the slaves with law or without it. The take.

The liberties of these States must be preserved; we should rejoice if this could be done without a struggle. But the public safety is important, and since the Senate will not consent to the use of a great element of strength, their remains but one thing for the President to do—see that the rebels sustain no detriment—and for this end, without law, call upon the slaves to recruit the army. The slaves ay, take negroes and use them.

Proposals will be entertained for 250 and upwards, no payment will be made for less than 250. Propose to us for under this heading as detailed as follows:

Two boys who have had some experience at the case. Inquire at this office.

COLORED RECRUITS AND THE CITY BOUNTY.—A large proportion of the credits which the city has obtained on its quota since the bounty of $300 was offered for volunteers, has been by the enlistment of colored men. These men have volunteered, of course, with the promise or understanding that they were to receive the bounty; but after being mustered into the service, they have been almost invariably denied the bounty money, being told that they were not entitled to it. The colored men justly complained of this outrageous treatment, and the master was brought to the attention of General Palmer or Col. Bill. There was no good reason why the city authorities should not pay the bounty to these men, since an accepted colored recruit counted as much on the quota of the city as a white one; and men who can't or don't want to go into the army are not very particular now-days what the shade or color of the men is who go in their places. It was ascertained, upon inquiry, that the city authorities had paid the bounty money, amounting to $3,500, for these colored recruits; and farther, that it had been paid to the mustering-in officer. And when that officer, a few days after, was called upon to account for the money, he said that it had been returned to the city authorities. We understand that the master is to be thoroughly sifted, and if there was any intention to defraud, it will doubtless be made to appear.

We understand that the bounty money wrongfully withheld from these recruits, will be paid them at once.

RELIEF OF SOLDIERS' FAMILIES.—We are glad to learn that the committee appointed by Colonel Bill, commanding post, some time ago, to solicit money from our citizens for the relief of soldiers' families, is meeting with fine success. Many of our citizens have responded liberally to the call made upon them for this purpose. Five of the banks in the city have contributed each $100, and the others will doubtless give a liberal sum when called upon. The committee think that $20,000 can be raised, which will be ample sufficient, now that the rigors of winter are about over, to afford the relief needed to the wives and families of soldiers in our midst.

MAN SHOT.—A man named Jacob Sumnerdyke was shot Saturday night in a house of ill-fame on Lafayette street, by a hackman named Frank St. John. It appears that Sumnerdyke engaged the hackman to take him to this house and when he got there he refused to pay him. The hackman followed him into the house and demanded the pay, and a quarrel ensued between them, resulting in the hackman shooting Sumnerdyke. The ball took effect in the abdomen, inflicting a probably fatal wound. St. John and two other men who were with him, named Armon Lockmer and P. H. Watkins, have since been arrested, and are now in jail. They will probably have a hearing before Judge Johnson this morning.

SOMETHING NEW.—Photography has made another stride forward in the production of sunlight pictures, which bids fair to supersede all former styles heretofore invented, to a very great extent. They consist of a photograph printed on opal glass, resembling an ivory miniature in softness of finish and beauty, and are susceptible of being colored to nature. Specimens can be seen at the Excelsior Gallery, No. 321 Market-street, between Third and Fourth. Pictures of the above style can be inserted in brooches, lockets and bracelets, at the same place.

LOUISVILLE THEATER.—Mr. C. L. Allen, of the Louisville Theater stock company, an excellent actor, will be the recipient of a benefit-to-night. In the particular line of characters which this gentleman assumes, he is surpassed by few. A varied and interesting bill is presented for the occasion. Mr. C. J. Hartwell has volunteered his services, and will appear as Rob Roy in the drama of that name. Mr. Allen as Ballou; Nicl Jarvie. The performance will conclude with the laughable farce of the "Bill in a China Shop." We expect to see the house crowded.

THE 149TH INDIANA.—The 149th Indiana regiment, raised in the Seventh Congressional District of that State, arrived here yesterday en route for the front. It is a splendid looking regiment, and one of the largest ever recruited in the State. It is armed with the best of Springfield rifles, and there are few of the men who don't know how to use them, most of them having already served a term in the army.

PROMOTED.—Sergeant S. Hay, of the 14th New Hampshire volunteers, who has been on duty at Barracks No. 1 for some time, is in charge of transportation, has, we are glad to learn, received an appointment as Captain in the 123rd United States Colored Infantry, Colonel Armstrong. He is a faithful man and good soldier, and will make an excellent officer.

FIRE!—About one o'clock Saturday night the building occupied as Barracks No. 1, Main street, was discovered to be on fire. The alarm was made, and the engines were promptly on the spot and extinguished the flames before much damage was done. A part of the roof was burned. The fire was started from a fuse in the chimney near the roof.

John Hawkins, Company C, 34th Kentucky, and Henry F. Vodair, Company F, 10th Kentucky Infantry, were arrested in the city Saturday as deserters.

DECEASED SOLDIERS.—The following are the names of soldiers and citizens in Government employment who have died during the week ending Saturday, furnished by Joseph Harrmann, undertaker, Green street, between Hancock and Jackson.
